Severe Burns Are Fatal to Vanoy; Still Is Destroyed

John J. Vanoy, 66, of 35 Hasbrouck avenue, who suffered severe burns when a flash fire gutted the house in which a still was uncovered last Friday, died at the Benedictine Hospital yesterday. Police were notified that Vanoy died at 1:05 p. m. He had been burned on the face, hands and body before he was rescued from the second-story window of the house, as the fire which started under a stairway, swept up to the second floor.

Federal men destroyed the still, which was found in operation on the attic floor and emptied the three and a half barrels of mash. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said today that the origin of the fire was undetermined and Police Chief Raymond VanBuren said that no other person was known to be implicated in the operation of the still.

Vanoy is survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen Vanoy of Rosendale, a sister, Elizabeth Vanoy and a brother, Henry, both of Arizona. A service will be held at the grave in Wiltwyck Cemetery Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Packard Boosts Its Pay Nine Cents an Hour and Agrees to Pension

Detroit, Aug. 23 (AP)—Another important automobile producer—Packard—got into step with the industry's developing higher wage structure today.

Packard, giving terms following the General Motors "formula," boosted its pay nine cents an hour and agreed to a pension to settle the 14-day-old strike of its 8,000 workers.

Agreement was reached in the early hours today with the C.I.O. United Auto Workers after near night-long negotiations.

The union and Packard agreed to a five-year contract which follows almost to the letter the historic pact entered into earlier this year by General Motors and the U.A.W.

The settlement, following hard on Chrysler's $25,000,000 annual pay boost of last week, shaped more clearly the general pay picture for the big auto industry.

Only Ford among the industry's "Big Three"—Ford, Chrysler and G.M.—remains outside this picture.

He Still Insists Dewey Must Make Decision; A.L.P. Plans Slate

(By The Associated Press)

Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley today carried his campaign to New York city—heart of the draft-Dewey movement—as New York state G.O.P. leaders awaited either a nod of acceptance or a final, loud "no" from the governor.

There was no indication that Dewey would say anything despite mounting pressure that he reconsider his announced retirement from public life, and agree to run on the Republican ticket for a third term as governor.

Hanley, still insisting that Dewey must make the decision; was to make his principal metropolitan appearance in his bid for the G.O.P. gubernatorial nomination at the first annual dinner sponsored by the city-wide Republican Women's Club and a citizens' committee.

Rep. William L. Pfeiffer, G.O.P. state chairman who is blamed by many pro-Hanley leaders for some of the draft-Dewey excitement, also is to speak.

The Democrats, still up in the air for a gubernatorial choice, got bad news from the American Labor Party, which often has supported Democratic candidates.

A.L.P. spokesmen indicated that party would run its own candidates for U. S. senator, governor, and other state posts. Major party leaders reportedly conceded the A.L.P. about 300,000 votes in the state—a decisive total in many recent state elections.

The A.L.P. defection was considered a threat to the reelection of Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, and will be felt by the Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Meanwhile, it was likely that C.I.O. endorsement of candidates would be discussed today in New York city at a meeting of the state C.I.O. executive board.

New pressure on Dewey to renounce his retirement came Saturday from the Board of Governors of the State Young Republican Clubs. The board, in a resolution adopted at a quarterly meeting in Buffalo, called on delegates to the G.O.P. state convention September 6-7 to nominate Dewey.

The organization has 17,000 members in 149 clubs.

At the same time, the young G.O.P. group suggested that Hanley be nominated for U. S. senator.

The resolution was sponsored by Doug Laries of Geneva.

Informed of the young G.O.P. move, Hanley said at his home in Perry that "this whole thing depends upon what Governor Dewey wants to do."

Hanley is scheduled to return to Albany tomorrow to await the start of the state convention at Saratoga Springs a week from Wednesday.

Commies Almost Reach Pohang Airstrip in Fierce Battle

Tokyo, Aug. 23 (AP)—The right wing of the 120-mile-long Allied southeastern Korea defense line bent back tonight before the power of a fresh Red Korean drive.

Severe fighting was reported from the central front rubble city of Waegwan 45 miles east to the sea of Japan coast port of Pohang. Allied pilots reported the heavy fighting late Monday.

Forty thousand of 64,000 Reds pressing the whole Allied Korean defense perimeter were committed in the northern arc battle.

The line bent southward near Red held Uihung, 22 miles north of the central front communications hub of Taegu, and just north and west of Pohang, No. 2 South Korean port on the east coast.

Earlier reports from the U. S. 8th Army in Korea and General MacArthur's headquarters had said the Reds had been contained.

AP Correspondent Hal Boyle landed at Pohang airport just before dark Monday and reported the Reds were 2 1/2 miles from Pohang and advancing against a severe naval and land bombardment.

Reds Spring Back

The Reds before Pohang sprang suddenly from prepared defense positions which they had dug when the South Koreans pushed them back eight to nine miles north of Pohang.

In a message directed to the South Koreans, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, U. S. 8th Army commander in Korea, urged them to hold, and added:

"It is my belief the over-extended enemy is making his last gasp."

Correspondent Boyle said American officers at the Pohang airport strip, six miles below the port city, felt the U. S. airfield could be held.

General Walker made his statement after expressing concern over earlier optimistic comment from line troops and officers.

Without discounting the importance of the North Korean smash toward Taegu and at Uihung, an intelligence officer at General MacArthur's headquarters said the next big drive is not yet under way. He expressed belief that one Red division, the Second, holds the key to it.

Get Ready for Haegu

The Second, one of the elite Red shock units, is refitting somewhere around Kumchon, north of Taegu, he said.

Three other Red Divisions, concentrated in the main mass, still were in position between Waegwan and Kumwon, northwest of Taegu.

The spokesman said the Red (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Kaercher Moves To Decline Run For Surrogate Job

Election Board Must Make Decision on Legality of Withdrawal on Primary Stand

William A. Kaercher, Kingston attorney, who was designated at the Democratic County convention held on July 6, as the party's choice for Democratic candidate for the office of surrogate, on Friday filed with the Board of Elections a declaration.

When Mr. Kaercher on Friday last declined to become a candidate for the office of surrogate following his election at the primary election to a position on the ballot, he posed a legal question which will be decided by the Board of Elections at a special meeting to be held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the office of the Board on John street.

The Board of Elections will be called upon to decide whether Mr. Kaercher's declaration can be legally accepted by the Board or whether, having allowed his name to be printed upon the primary ballot and thereafter having been elected as the Democratic party's choice for the office, he has thereby become the party's choice and his name must go on the ballot in November as a candidate.

Under the election law there appears to be no provision for a candidate whose name appeared upon the primary ballot, and who has been regularly designated at a primary election, to decline the designation except in a case where he has been nominated for another office or nominated to fill some other vacancy. These circumstances do not apply to the present case.

John B. Steyer, present surrogate, has been nominated by the Republican party as its choice for the office and he was duly designated on primary day as the party's candidate.

Pickets appeared this morning at both ends of the Merriman Dam on New York city's water supply project near Lackawack, the Board of Water Supply police said.

The police said the pickets represented the International Bridge Structural Iron Workers Local 417, of Newburgh.

The picketing so far has not been marred by any incidents of violence, and at present work is not proceeding on the dam, police said.

Details of the dispute were not made public today. Samuel Doyle, business agent for the Ironworkers, will be "somewhere on the project" all day today, and could not be located, his office spokesman said. He "could not give out any information."

Commander of Allied Troops in Korea Favors Protecting China Coast Isle From Communists as Security Move for United States

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur has withdrawn under orders a statement he planned to make today on Formosa.

Without indicating that he had changed his views, which are known to conflict with those of the administration, the commander of United Nations forces in Korea cancelled a message he had sent to a Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment in Chicago.

He told the V.F.W. he did so regretfully.

The incident appeared certain to bring wide repercussions, involving as it does the top United States official in the Orient where prestige—or "face"—is so important.

Presidential Secretary Charles C. Ross confirmed today what had been surmised—that Mr. Truman himself ordered the withdrawal.

Ross told reporters: "In order to avoid confusion as to the U.S. position with respect to Formosa, the President directed that the statement prepared by General MacArthur on this subject be withdrawn."

Asked whether MacArthur might be relieved of his command as a result of the incident, Ross said, "the incident is closed."

Will Only Block Invasion

Simultaneously with the announcement of Mr. Truman's action, the White House released a letter from the President to Warren Austin, U.S. representative in the United Nations. This restated the United States position with reference to Formosa so that there will be "no misunderstanding."

Mr. Truman's stated policy is that Formosa must be neutralized so far as the Korean war is concerned, but this country will make no commitment other than to block any invasion attempt during the current crisis.

The White House did not elaborate on the letter Mr. Truman sent to Austin but a White House authority told reporters:

"The only one who can state there can be only one value in stating the position of the United States. This is regarded as being of fundamental constitutional importance."

In Tokyo, MacArthur replied through a spokesman that he had "no comment" when asked to expand on the circumstances surrounding withdrawal of his statement.

It had been made available last week to V.F.W. officials in Chicago. They in turn distributed it to newspapers and wire services for use this morning, when it was scheduled to be read at the encampment.

However, Clyde A. Lewis, V.F.W. commander, cancelled plans for its reading and asked through an aide that it not be published after MacArthur's cable last night.

"I regret to inform you that I have been directed to withdraw my message to the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars."

The incident was the second in as many days of knuckle-rapping for high officials of the military establishment who do not agree fully with administration foreign policy.

Cancel Speech

Lattimore's Address Is Off Because of Protests By Guests of Hotel

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 23 (AP)—A scheduled speech by Owen Lattimore was canceled by management of the fashionable Wentworth-by-the-Sea Hotel last night because of protests by guests.

James B. Smith, owner of the resort hotel, said 210 of 350 guests voted 121 to 69 in a poll against Lattimore's appearance at an informal "Sunday night entertainment session." The 140 other guests, he said, did not return ballots.

Smith said he decided on taking a poll to determine the sentiment of the majority of guests after several protested verbally.

Lattimore, whose subject was to have been "The Situation in Asia," said he was "extremely sorry" at not being allowed to speak.

Lattimore, a Far Eastern expert, recently was charged by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) with being Russia's "top spy" in this country. He was cleared of all charges by a Senate investigating committee.

U. S. Gets Contracts

Ottawa, Aug. 23 (AP)—Canada announced today the conclusion of arrangements with the U. S. to buy 100 Mustang F-51 fighter planes as one step in new measures to boost the fighting strength of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Another step will be to sign a huge order for Canadian-built jets valued at "considerably in excess" of $100,000,000.

State's Forces Reorganized For Threat of Atomic Attack

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—Governor Dewey's chief of staff announced today that the state's military and naval forces had been reorganized into a unified command to face the threat of atomic attack.

Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, who also is commanding general of the New York National Guard and the New York State Militia, said the state's Division of Military and Naval Affairs had been changed to conform in principle to the national military establishment.

The move was ordered by Dewey, Hausauer said.

In a report to the governor on the reorganization, Hausauer said that "the lessons of World Wars 1 and 2, now accentuated by the threat of sudden hostile atomic attack, have demonstrated the necessity for unification of the (state's) armed forces as a whole."

Under the reorganization, the chief of staff to the governor occupies the same position in the state that the secretary of defense does on the national level.

Critical Materials

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—The General Services Administration set up a list of 11 critical materials today and ordered government agencies to conserve them.

The order applies especially to purchases of motor vehicles, typewriters, steel filing cabinets and other equipment using critical materials. The order listed the following as "critical materials at this time": Aluminum, cement, copper, lead, leather, lumber, paper, rubber (synthetic, natural or in combination), steel, wool and zinc.

The policy group is to furnish legal advice to the chief of staff and the division, coordinate budget and fiscal activities of the division, furnish central staff control over functions of equipment, supply, construction and maintenance within the division, coordinate public relations and prepare necessary plans for military participation in civilian defense.

The operating group will handle the supply and administration of the division, thereby leaving the armed forces free to control their command, administration, training and supply at the troop level.

Two Firemen Are Felled by Smoke in Highland Fire

A smoky fire in a second floor apartment at Highland Sunday evening caused two firemen to be overcome by smoke, but did little damage other than smudge.

Volunteer firemen Abram Bloomer and Gordon Busch were given prompt treatment at the scene and today were reported to be recovered from the effects of the smoke.

The fire broke out in a mattress in the second floor apartment of the Nardone building at Vinyard and Milton avenues. The building was the former Highland Inn and had recently housed the Highland Hardware store on the first floor. The store was no longer doing business, but there was some stock stored there. The building, now owned by Joseph Nardone, adjoins the Grand Union market.

The fire was discovered at 6:15 p. m. Sunday by Gabriel DiLorenzo, a taxi driver. There was no one in the apartment at the time, firemen said.

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—Gustav Metzger, president of the New York Central System, said a quick change act yesterday as part of the army's seizure of the railroad. He walked into his office as President Metzger, wearing civilian clothes, and emerged shortly afterwards as Colonel Metzger, wearing the uniform and holding the post of director of eastern railroad operations for the army. It was a familiar role for the part-time colonel. He filed it once before, in May 1948, when the government seized the rails in a similar strike situation.

Horse Destroyed Following Mishap

A dark grey saddle horse had to be destroyed following an unusual accident near Creek Locks Saturday afternoon.

The horse was being ridden toward Creek Locks when it was edged off the shoulder of the road and struck a concrete guard post, completely severing its right hind leg, according to a report by state police and the Ulster County S.P.C.A.

The post was moved about six inches in the ground.

There were no reported injuries to the rider, Daniel Azzato, 22, of Creek Locks. The accident occurred during a rainfall about 4 p. m. Saturday. Special Agent Ray Winne of the S.P.C.A. and Trooper Nicodemus of the State Police investigated and ordered the horse shot by Roach Brothers.

WOODSTOCK

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Maverick Offers Two Plays During Season's Finale

Woodstock, Aug. 28.—Two plays widely contrasted in both mood and background are presented as the final offering of a unique drama season at the Maverick Theatre by the Left Players. Opening last Saturday night, the two plays "A Phoenix Too Frequent" and "Ribbon of Smoke" will be performed on Tuesday night, followed by two nights of night performances, resuming again Thursday night to run through Labor Day.

Whether or not the Impish piece of British nonsense, by Christopher Fry, "A Phoenix Too Frequent" which was undoubtedly written for, and appealed to sophisticated, Mayfair audiences will amuse many Woodstock summer visitors, could not be ascertained Saturday night. Whether or not one savors the sepulchral humor of the play, its real distinction lies in the fabulously clever "set" by Val Coleman and Ed Mann, highlighted by Ida Mary Costello's and Ed Mann's jewel-like costumes. The other laudable feature was Elleen Cramer's uproarious performance as the maid, Ooto who goes on a royal Grecian bender amidst her sober surroundings.

The lady, Dynamene, played with grace by Dorothy DuBrow, lies prostrate in the tomb of her recently deceased spouse, determined to fast and enter the dark region of Hades along with her husband. It seems her late husband was "a man of the world" and for her companion Dynamene has chosen her maid Ooto, to accompany her on the journey into the land of Hades. Troubled by her grammar and doubts as to her background, Ooto recalls that she is "from a nether world—but not to neither."

Ooto's courage to enter the land of Hades is strengthened by copious swigs on the wine bottle offered by the handsome young guardian, Tegeus, who has come to guard six new bodies hanging outside the tomb. Reassured by the surrounding darkness, some lively shinnings ensue, with Ooto, sleeping off her jag still dominating the scene.

The initial performance of Jose Quintero's new play "Ribbon of Smoke" brings to Woodstock for the first time the work of a young, deeply thoughtful playwright. Actually it is but an episode, an anguished series of strikingly beautiful pictures depicting the futile, heart rending yearnings of a helpless people. Couched in a somewhat confused though poetic language the final impression is yet vivid and supremely tragic.

In a primitive Indian village in a valley around a small family, the Central America action rears of whom cherishes desires to break with the old tradition. From the village on the mountain slope may be seen the Equator, "the ribbon of smoke—which cuts the world in two."

As the mother, Miriam Green, is responsible for an impassioned scene as in her grief she reverts to memories of cradling and singing to her babies, subsiding to soft croonings as the other action goes on, Van Coleman plays the mayor with restraint and dignity.

These are the final productions of the season of a group of earnest, sincere and courageous young people. As word that "here is something different" began to circulate, their audiences have grown slowly but steadily. Young groups are too prone to hang a drape, place a bench in front of it and light a character from a sharp angle, thereby achieving "an effect." The Left Players have painstakingly built often intricate sets, carefully painted them and dyed their costumes for exact color harmony. Anyone with an eye for detail must surely have spotted the highly original small props employed in the productions. For each play they have been distinctly in character.

The Left Players have brought a fresh and vigorous spirit to the Maverick and in doing so have won a host of loyal friends in the vicinity.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—There was a cautious forward movement in the stock market today but it was devoid of enthusiasm.

Gains went beyond a dollar in some cases. For the most part, however, they were counted in cents. Losses—and there were plenty of them—were restricted to under a dollar generally.

Steels met early selling pressure with price recessions that attracted enough buying to put them back up again.

Rails started out slowly in seeming disregard of the fact the railroads were still operating but under government direction. Losses were only a few cents, but those on the upside had only slightly more generous gains.

Today's inactivity and small price changes contrasted markedly with Friday's thumping losses that broke a five-week advance after the Korean war tumbled the market.

Wall Street liked President Truman's reported stand on imposition of an excess profits tax. Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) after a White House call said the President wants the tax studied before it is enacted at a later date.

Fair Opening Is Tuesday; Dewey to Speak Wednesday

All is in readiness for the opening of the 105th annual Dutchess county fair at Rhinebeck tomorrow. William K. Hepburn, president, said today that the fair will have a record breaking 15,000 agricultural exhibits plus outstanding and unusual entertainment features.

One of the highlights of the fair will be the appearance of Governor Dewey at Rhinebeck Wednesday. He will speak informally at 2 p. m. and thereafter make a tour of the fairgrounds and exhibits. In honor of his visit, the day will be known as Governor's Day.

Special events have been arranged for each day of the fair. Tomorrow will be Rhinebeck day with the crowning of a violet queen as the climax of the day's program.

Thursday State Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets will visit the fair, Agricultural Day, and Friday will be County Officers Day. Fair officers will accept a deed to the 82-acre fairgrounds in a public ceremony at 2 p. m. Saturday will be Farmers' Day with county vamps scheduled to put on two big fire fighting demonstrations.

Shows of old and new fire fighting equipment.

The fair's judging schedule extends four of the five days. Aberdeen Angus, 4-H Holsteins, Granges, Fruits, Vegetables and Industrial Exhibits will be judged tomorrow. Wednesday's schedule calls for judging of Holsteins, poultry, swine, grains and grasses. Judging for Thursday and Friday, Tuesday, will include dairy cattle, flowers, sheep and remaining 4-H Club home-making projects. Brown Swiss, Ayrshire and Jersey cattle will be judged Friday.

Harness racing, with 73 trotters and pacers entered, is scheduled for tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. There will be a pony show Thursday and horse show Friday. Entertainment, including a seven act grandstand show and the King Reid carnival is slated for each day and night of the fair. All exhibits will remain in place until 10 p. m. Saturday.

Merriman Dam Is

office on the project said his company had no comment at the present time. Contractor on the job is S. A. Healy Construction Company.

Merriman dam, which is nearing completion, is an earthen dam designed to be virtually bomb-proof. It has been completed to its required height, and the lower side has been seeded with grass. Last week the up-river side was being faced with bluestone.

The dam, on the Rondout creek, will form a basin for storage of an estimated 55 billion gallons of water and will be capable of delivering water to New York City at the rate of 100 million gallons per day.

Asks School Shelters

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—New schools containing atom bomb shelters were proposed for New York City today. Maximilian Moss, president of the board of education, made the proposal at a planning commission hearing on the 1951 capital budget. Calling education our first defense and our last defense, Moss urged present plans for new schools be pushed without delay. He said his department would study the cost of revising designs to include reinforced concrete basements for sheltering pupils and residents of school neighborhoods. "We ought to build new schools as rapidly as possible to have shelters in the event of warfare," Moss said.

A report from National Chinese Forces Monday said the Chinese Reds had massed 470,000 troops near the Korean border and some of the Chinese Communists had crossed into Korea.

The Air Force spokesman said reconnaissance planes would spot such troop movements.

Revolt Against Selassie

Calcutta, Aug. 28 (AP)—Ethiopia's largest and richest province is reported in revolt against the land taxes and rule of Emperor Haile Selassie. An informed source reported that armed peasants in Gogjam province of northern Ethiopia had cut the throats of two wealthy district governors. Truckloads of government troops have been rushed to the province to quell the disturbances, which broke out late in July. The peasants reportedly feel that health and education facilities in Gogjam are inadequate. The revolt was touched off by the arrest of some peasants and confiscation of their lands in an effort to collect delinquent land taxes.

Up To Salvage Men

San Francisco, Aug. 28 (AP)—Navy salvage experts will recommend whether the sunken hospital ship Benedictine should be refloated or blasted. The sunken hulk is on its side in 75 feet of water and only two miles offshore. If it is too damaged, it probably will be dynamited to clear the channel into San Francisco Harbor. The mercy ship, recently demobilized to bring wounded home from Korea, was rammed on her final test run by the freighter Mary Luckenbach in thick fog Friday evening.

Times Are Tough

Telephone Raceways
Save Walls in Home

Two of the most prudent precautions to take in building a new home today are the installation of adequate electric outlets for the constantly growing number of household appliances and the installation of telephone raceways.

After a modern insulated house is completed, it becomes difficult and expensive to change its wiring system.

Telephone raceways are pre-installed connections that facilitate future instrument installation at almost any point in the house.

The advantages of plug-in telephone raceways are something worth considering, especially in two-story homes. With a plug-in system, an instrument can be moved from one room to another and back again at will.

Built-in raceways simplify auxiliary telephone installations and eliminate damage to walls and decoration.

A substitute for built-in raceways has been developed in a raceway baseboard. This consists of two extruded aluminum interlocking elements. The lower one is screwed to the floor and the upper is a removable plate — the two concealing all wiring in a three-safe panel.

Another handy invention is an electric outlet strip. In the place of ordinary base outlets, this strip permits plugging in household appliances at any point around a room.

Cops to Talk With Hedy

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—New York police have arranged to question Screen Star Hedy Lamarr today about her $250,000 worth of missing jewels. The actress reported the gems missing Saturday while visiting New York City at the Sheraton-Neerland Hotel. She has been staying at a summer resort at Southampton, Long Island, about 100 miles east of here. Miss Lamarr had delayed reporting the loss, thinking she might have left the jewels at Southampton. On her return there, however, she decided they had been lost in New York. She said they were not insured.

Will Try Again

Lake George, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Diane Struble wants to try again to swim the 38-mile length of Lake George, but she says she'll wait until she has "more training." Diane, an attractive blonde high school senior from Scotia, gave up her first attempt in a heavy fog early yesterday. When she climbed out of the chilly water near Hatchet Island she had covered about 19 miles in approximately 18 hours. She had planned to complete the swim near Ticonderoga, at the north end of the lake, in about 24 hours.

Check Smuggling Ring

Montreal, Aug. 28 (AP)—Immigration authorities said today they were seeking evidence of a suspected international smuggling ring dealing in immigrants bound for the United States. They said the discovery of six Italian stowaways Saturday aboard an incoming Italian freighter led them to suspect such a ring was operating with Montreal as its distribution center.

Allied Troop Deployment

Map locates approximate positions of various U. S. and South Korean units opposing invading North Koreans (dark arrows) along 120-mile perimeter after nine weeks of war in Korea. Broken line is approximate battle line as of noon, E.S.T., Aug. 28. Inset maps show week-by-week penetration of Communists with dates—indicating end of each week in U. S. time. The Reds have been stalled all week in efforts to break through the Kumhwa-Chongno line in north to take vital city of Taegu.

'Real Power' Plan

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—The United States should try to arrange a world conference to revise the United Nations charter so that the U.N. would have "real power" to halt aggression, the United World Federalists, Inc., says. "The ability of the U.N. to act against aggression in Korea depended on the absence of one nation, the Soviet Union," said a resolution adopted yesterday by the Federalists' executive council. It added, "we cannot reasonably expect the same situation in the event of future aggression." The organization advocates a federal system of world government.

Find Uranium

London, Aug. 28 (AP)—The British government has announced discovery of the largest single deposit—perhaps a million tons—of uranium located in the British Isles. The ministry of supply said the ore, in northern Wales, is of "extremely low yield." The ministry hinted exploitation might not be feasible. The Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, however, said the ore is "in no way inferior" to deposits being worked by the Russians in East Germany. The scientists calculated the ore would yield 80 grams (less than three ounces) per ton.

Advices Clay About Mutual Police Plan

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—New York and other states could send state police, equipment and supplies across state lines in case of war or other emergency, Attorney General Nathan L. Goldstein says.

Goldstein gave his opinion yesterday in advising Gov. Lucius D. Clay, chairman of New York's Civilian Defense Commission, that the Commission could enter into mutual aid arrangements with other states. He said such pacts would require the approval of the governor.

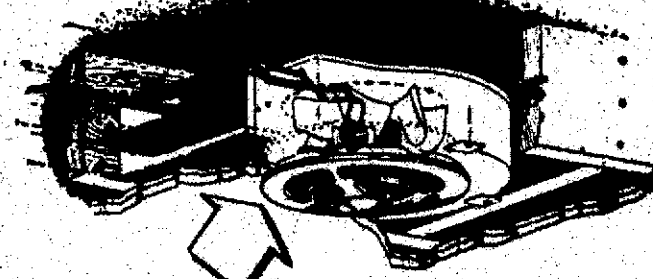

Goldstein added, however, that he would "much prefer to have more specific and detailed action enacted covering these and all questions of defense operation in the field of civilian defense."

He suggested that the commission submit recommendations to the 1951 legislature.

The arc-light, used in the earlier days of electric street lighting, also was applied to some of the first experiments in radio telephony.

ATOMIC PILE FOR PEACEFUL PURPOSE

Ever since America began lacing up its military boots again this summer, Americans have been bombarded with atomic arguments, fears and apprehensions, suddenly revived by memory of what happened at Hiroshima five years ago.

There have been clamor calls to drop the bomb in Korea, even on Moscow, and get it over with. (And there have been saner declarations that we are not yet engaged in a struggle of atomic proportions.) There have been dramatically frightening articles on what would happen to us if the bomb dropped in our neighborhood. (And there have been more sober explanations, in the Atomic Energy Commission's own handbook, that discounted a lot of old fears.)

It is true enough, to be sure, that America is engaged in an atomic arms race, and that production of atomic bombs is probably at an all-time high. But there is hopeful evidence, too, that the atom may be put to work at peaceful pursuits in time to be one of the wonders of this generation.

One such sign comes from the A.E.C.'s Brookhaven National Laboratory at Upton, N. Y. There the other afternoon a mild and bespectacled scientist in shirt sleeves gave the signal that started the awesome forces of nature at work in America's first postwar atomic pile.

Brookhaven is probably the most powerful atomic furnace in the world, but it is dedicated solely to scientific research. In its reactor, neutrons will be produced to help chemists learn more about the elements; biologists, more about life's processes, and medical experts, more about the mystery of diseases.

In a few months, when the furnace at Brookhaven reaches its full force, it will be a small-scale example of another job the atom could do for man's good. The 30,000 kilowatts it will be producing then could, if converted, provide all the electrical needs of small town.

The electricity Brookhaven could make is only a symbol, however. Other laboratories are working feverishly to build an atomic engine for submarines, and there is great hope they will have succeeded by late 1951. Once before submarines showed the way to a new power for transportation in the development of the diesel engine that is now fast crowding coal out of railroad locomotives.

Brookhaven's dedication to research is an encouraging milestone in the atomic age. It is a paradox that the arms race for an atom-powered submarine is most likely to show us how to harness the atom to civilized, workaday jobs. But it is an unhappy paradox for the future.

STRIKE UP THE BAN

The power of the atom is being felt in a new—and encouraging—way at General Electric's atomic power laboratory at Schenectady, N. Y.

Workers there refused to do anything about striking right now. The reason, said the president of the Atomic Energy Commission Workers local (C.I.O.), is that "we feel a loyalty to the government, and that doesn't call for a strike vote at this time."

It's a feeling we hope will spread on all sides of the home front.

CONVERSATION IN RED

India wants to talk with Communist China about the status of Tibet. The Chinese Reds would like to "liberate" Tibet from its unhappy condition of independence. India wants to see the independence of Tibet preserved, and seeks to turn the Reds aside from any attempt to take Tibet by force.

In the United Nations Security Council, India has been a friend-at-court of Communist China, supporting the proposal that the Reds be given China's seats in United Nations bodies, still occupied by the Nationalists. It will be interesting to see whether India will persist in this support after it has had a few months of experience in attempting to carry on an intelligent negotiation

FACE!

Intimate correspondence from China indicates that Mao Tse-Tung is up against the old Oriental problem of "face." That is a very serious business. It is possible to translate the term in English as personal dignity, character, respect; but none of these words quite conveys the weight of "face." For if a man in any far eastern country has lost "face," he is just nothing at all. He might just as well commit suicide, and be often does.

Mao Tse-Tung has lost "face" because Chiang Kai-shek's representative sits in the United Nations. Although the Russians were able to help Mao to conquer China, Russia has not been able to obtain that seat, with a veto, for Mao on the Security Council.

The loss of "face" for Mao must have been most unpleasant. What is the use of being a big shot if recognition does not come with it? And I can well imagine that Mao must have complained bitterly to Molotov, who has been in Peking for quite a period. Perhaps in his chagrin and disappointment, Mao called attention to the unerringly correct fact that Tito's Yugoslavia has a seat on the Security Council but Mao's China does not have such a seat.

There is a principle involved in this matter which the western world seems not to understand: When, on January 15, Soviet Russia began its long boycott of the United Nations, Mao actually had a chance to get the coveted seat. Dean Acheson, with his rare gift for doing the wrong thing, announced that the United States would not use the veto against Soviet China; that while this country would vote against seating Soviet China, it would abide by a majority vote.

It seemed to everybody that that settled the whole matter. A majority vote could be arranged with the connivance of the State Department; Mao's China would be seated; Chiang Kai-shek would be abandoned; and Acheson could, with polished righteousness, say that the United States would not stoop to use the veto. That should have satisfied Stalin.

But it did not. Instead, Soviet Russia boycotted the United Nations and started the Korean war and risked loss of face" for Mao.

The reason is that the Russians will not submit to a majority vote on matters which involve the permanent revolution. Their contention is that they did not conquer China, but rather that China had a civil war in which one of the Chinese parties—the Communists—won. Similarly, the Russians did nothing in Korea, where there was a civil war in which one of the Korean parties—the Communists—won.

Then they go to the next step, which is to state and uphold the principle that when the government of a country is changed as a result of civil war, the winning party naturally and ipso facto succeeds to the rights and privileges of the defeated party and that such recognition by the United Nations is a matter of course. It is impossible to reach any other conclusions from reading Jacob Malik's presentation of Russia's case.

The question then arises: If a great power assists in these civil wars, might that not be interpreted as an act of military conquest? And when it is noted that that great power maintains a federation of Soviet socialist republics in which the international actions of such countries are controlled, is this not a new form of imperialism?

Not says Soviet Russia. Any country can aid any other country. Further, any countries may enter into political, commercial, defensive alliances, and do. The forms are of their own choosing, whether they be Marshall Plans or North Atlantic military alliances or Arab leagues, or the Communist front.

Of course, if the Russian argument stands, the United Nations has no function. Let us say that the next country to have a civil war is French Indo-China and the Communists there win, being aided by Soviet Russia. Then automatically Ho Chi-Minh is entitled to recognition. This can be made to include Iran, Turkey, Afghanistan, the Philippines, Pakistan, anywhere.

China is the test case. If Russia can fight through the principle that Mao Tse-Tung is entitled to his seat automatically, then she has won a tremendous victory and has served notice to all the small countries of the world that their future lies in the acceptance of Stalin's leadership. ## That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

MORE THAN CLIMATE NEEDED

It is generally agreed that patients afflicted with hay fever, asthma, sinus disease, and frequent head colds do better in a dry climate. Thus we learn of some cases who remain in Arizona, Colorado, and other southwestern states who improve so much that when they return east and remain there they are still free of symptoms for years afterwards.

As most cases of asthma, hay fever and sinusitis are due to allergy, sensitivity to various substances such as dust, feathers, fur, house dust, a study of 150 unselected patients who came to Tucson, Arizona, for climate treatment of allergic disorders were made by Dr. F. B. Shutzbank of Tucson. Seventy-two per cent were benefited, and 28 per cent were not helped. The report of the study appeared in The Journal of the American Medical Association.

Of the 101 asthmatic persons, 74 had from 50 to 100 per cent relief from symptoms. In 32 the improvement could be attributed to getting away from unfavorable emotional environments, and in 28 to improvement of chronic infection of nose, throat and bronchial tubes.

Patients who had undergone extensive operations for sinus infection before coming to Tucson usually did poorly there. The record for patients with hay fever was about fifty-fifty, half obtaining excellent results and the other half poor results. The dry climate with its excessive dust may not agree with some patients and many patients suffer financially, mentally, and physically because they were not completely studied for allergy and the effects of surroundings in their home climates before leaving home. On the other hand, older patients and those who had suffered with chronic infection for years are often greatly helped by moving to a warm dry climate. And those whose symptoms are aggravated by cold, high humidity, storminess and rain may be benefited by climate treatment.

Dr. Shutzbank therefore states that when a patient is advised to change his climate surroundings, he should be told that it may take a year or more to gain the desired improvement and that it is advisable to receive the recognized treatment—allergy tests, investigation of emotional disturbances—and not depend on the climate alone to effect a magic cure.

A Steadying Influence

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Every year about vacation time there is a big argument in the Pearson family—about what to do during our vacation.

The little woman naturally wants to get away from home. For some strange reason she seems to feel she should get away from home. For three meals a day, moths in the piano and musical crickets under the radiator. And with her boy, just coming of draft age, she wanted to get off to the Maine woods or the mountains where we could forget about Korea, and the woes of the world.

On the whole I didn't blame her. But being almost as disagreeable in my home as I am to congressmen, I confess that I put up an argument.

"If we go to some beach resort," said I, "the folks in the hotel lobby will be whispering 'there's that fellow that President Truman called a so-and-so.' Or nice old ladies will be wanting autographs, and every amateur politician in the place will be claiming he can make predictions better than I can, and will want to stay up all night to prove it."

"In brief," I concluded, "it'll be just like Washington."

"But that's your public," replied Mrs. P., "and you know perfectly well how deep in your heart that you wouldn't be happy without your public. If the little girls and the old ladies in hotel lobbies didn't come up and ask for your autograph you'd think you were slipping."

"Now look," I protested, "we have a nice farm in Maryland with the Potomac river flowing right past our front door. Why should we leave it? Let's forget about gallivanting about the country and take life easy at home."

Vacation Cows
Mrs. P. let out something akin to a snort at this.

"You have a deadline every day with a column seven days a week," she said. "Yet now on your vacation you want to take on two deadlines a day—cows!"

"I realize they have to be milked twice a day," I admitted, referring to my prize bovine friends. "But at least they don't ask for your autograph."

"Besides cows don't talk politics," I continued, "and they don't complain except when you take their milk away. They don't even worry over what you say about them, the way Senator Byrd of Virginia does. And they don't make long-winded speeches like Congressman Jacobs of Indiana."

Maybe I shouldn't have argued so much. I felt guilty about it afterward. Because in the end we settled for two deadlines a day.

Usually when it comes to such things as Senator Taft, Mrs. P. wins the argument. But this time she suddenly yielded.

"It's your vacation," she said, "and I guess you're entitled to do what you want. So if you want cows, well, vacation with the cows."

So we did, and on the whole I think Mrs. P. enjoyed it.

Filling the Silo

Of course, she didn't enjoy it when the bull got loose and acted as hellacious as Senator McCarthy, though his name happens to be Harry Truman. You see, I name the bulls for my various "admirers," one of whom is Senator McKellar. It was with considerable regret this summer that we finally sent Senator McKellar to Baltimore and the sausage factory. I had come to be quite fond of the old senator; but like his namesake from Tennessee, he had become quite ornery, and we had to ship him off.

I admit also that Mrs. P. probably didn't get any vacation thrill over my filling the silo. In the old days when labor was so scarce we had to use German prisoners, who used to help out by driving a truck. But this summer, thanks to a new Holland forage crop harvester, we got the silo filled in no time, and she didn't have to help.

A few years ago, we used to spend a week of backbreaking toil, cutting down corn, stooping over to pick up the bundles, loading it on trucks and feeding it into an ensilage cutter. But this year thanks to the forage crop harvester, the crop was automatically picked up in the field, chewed into fine bits, spewed into trucks and then blown up into the silo. Instead of twenty men for a week, we used six men for four days. That's what labor-saving machinery has done to the farm.

However, Mrs. P. did have quite a time with her dog, which finally brought forth two pups, compared with my cat which had three kittens. And farm life was not entirely dull. We took in a swell movie, "The Lawless," sued Fred Howser, the attorney general of California for $500,000 (he having sued me for $300,000), and entertained King Peter of Yugoslavia, a very democratic little guy who was just as courteous in meeting our cook as in meeting a senator.

Oh, yes, I forgot to say that in order not to be too hardhearted, I took Mrs. P. up to Long Island where we took in the trotting races at George Morton Levy's beautiful Roosevelt Raceway. I visited my old boss, Herbert Bayard Swope, and my old student, Ernest Cuneo, went sailing on the sound and relaxed generally.

Canoe Trip
But I think the best part of the vacation was the Sunday when I took Mrs. P. on a canoe trip up the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, dug 120 years ago, long before the railroads, to connect Washington with the Ohio river and the Mississippi. Starting from in front of our house, we paddled up to Seneca, where the canal barges once transported their cargoes, then returned down the bottom of the Potomac—a most turbulent bottom—at that point with so many rapids that we spent half the time in the water rather than in the canoe.

I confess that the war news from Korea hung like a cloud over much of our vacation. But out on that historic river where you could see no sign of human habitation, you could almost forget that two parts of the world were tearing at each other's throats; forget what a mess man has made of modern civilization.

Almost, but not quite. Gone from the Potomac were the sharpened poles which once pointed down toward the river on the Maryland side to keep the Johnny Rebs from crossing from Virginia. But still present on the river bank were the stone and battlements reminding us of a war just as bloody as that in Korea, where brothers and cousins of the North and South battled against each other—a grim reminder that there seem to continue as long as man is man.

Well, I think Mrs. P. enjoyed reasonably well—especially the canoe trip that cost only fifty cents. And I came back, still the incurable optimist, hoping that some day wars can be stopped and that the debacle in Korea may be one faltering step toward stopping the stone age.

Matthews' Statement on Aggression Cannot Be Considered Lightly

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 28—What Secretary of the Navy Matthews said in his Boston speech about anticipating aggression by counter-attack cannot be pooh-poohed as just irrelevant or indiscreet. For even though he spoke out of turn and has been reprimanded for it in the statement of disavowal issued by the Department of State the issue he raised is fundamental and inescapable.

The issue is simply this: Would the American people be willing to see New York or Detroit or any other American cities suddenly destroyed without warning by atom bombs by an aggressor state and then only begin to retaliate by dropping our own atom bombs over the aggressor country?

Must the age-old forms of waiting for a declaration of war by an enemy still be accepted and thus let the aggressor state always possess the horrifying advantage of being able to tell exactly when and where the first blow would be struck?

This is not a new controversy in history and the apprehension it has stirred probably has led to the outbreak of war in cases that might have yielded to peaceful negotiation but it is a realistic phase of international relations which in an atomic era at least cannot be brushed aside as inapplicable to democracies.

The principal criticism that will be made of Mr. Matthews' speech is that he gave the Soviet propaganda bureau ammunition to call us "warmongers." For he said that the time may come when the United States will have to "institute a war of compulsion" for peace, adding that while this might be new for a democracy we might have to play a new role—"aggressors for peace."

Although the speech was not cleared through the Department of State or White House, and should never have been made because it does not jibe with American foreign policy, nevertheless now that the words have been expressed it probably is a good thing to have the Russian press and the Russian people know that the American people are not sitting idly by while a group of evil men in the Kremlin are considering more aggression in different parts of the world. It may be salutary for the Russians to learn that democracy is determined to counteract any aggressor allowing an aggressor to take the initiative.

In principle Mr. Matthews is really saying what the American policy proposals on the international control of atomic energy have advocated, namely that when international inspection is agreed to there should be a right to go into any country and put a stop at once to any intended use of atomic energy for purposes of making war. In the absence of such international control, what shall be the role of a democracy?

This correspondent has differed in the past with Mr. Matthews' handling of the Navy Department's speech and that of a man of different experience should be heading that department but it could well happen that Mr. Matthews' greatest service to his country would have been performed by speaking out plainly as he did in Boston last week.

The issue is too real and means too much to the lives of many Americans to be so peddled or ignored. George Craig, national commander of the American Legion, last Saturday raised the same question.

It all boils down to the fact that the United States while preparing to defend its cities and its allies is failing to come to grips with the basic question of a sudden attack by the Soviet. Instead all the Democracies are doing is gazing into a crystal ball, trying to guess what the Communists may do.

The turning point in a war against the Democracies which began four years ago. It's a war that has deprived many countries of their independence, has deprived nations of other countries of their rights and has infiltrated by devilish means into the lives of nations interfering with their governmental processes.

What Mr. Matthews might better have said is that Russia now has started a shooting war of aggression in North Korea and the question before the democracies is whether they will let the true aggressor escape or whether they will sit around the United Nations table treating him as an equal when his hands are covered with the blood of Allied soldiers. Mr. Matthews might well have asked when America and her Allies will begin formally to name Russia as the aggressor and take military steps necessary to bring about the withdrawal of her armies from Germany and other sovereign countries and from areas which Red troops are not entitled to occupy. But even so it was and is the duty of the United States and the Secretary of State to say such things if they are to be said at all. Mr. Matthews has involuntarily given everybody, however, a solemn warning.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 27—The headline of this commentary has no particular meaning in relation to the subject matter, although there are several hundred Communists in the New Bedford-Fall River area, most of them aliens or naturalized immigrants, and our topic is the preventive detention of enemy aliens. I have discussed before the decision of the Supreme Court upholding imprisonment in concentration camps of thousands of American citizens of Japanese ancestry and physiognomy whose loyalty was unquestioned. The court's opinion upholding this treatment is so devoid of hypocrisy that it must frighten honest devotees of our constitution. For that reason alone, to be sure, I was frightened by the potential threat of our safety presented by many thousands of Japanese who, like the Communists, are in New Bedford-Fall River.

I refused to swear unqualified allegiance to the United States and to "renounce allegiance to a foreign power."

I agreed with General John L. DeWitt, the commanding general of the western command, when he said, in effect, that "the successful prosecution of the war requires every possible protection against sabotage and espionage to national defense material, premises and utilities." But I realized when I visited the Japanese concentration camp at Sacaton, Ariz., that, regardless of any act that the Supreme Court might promulgate as law, we had there a precedent for the detention in concentration camps of Jews because they are Jews, Negroes because they are Negroes, or Republicans because they are Republicans, in some future situation where some million men should profess to find a similar danger. That decision was endorsed by Felix Frankfurter in a special, concurring quibble of his own.

If you can throw a loyal American of Japanese ancestry into a concentration camp because his forebears came from Japan you can throw Pegler into a concentration camp because his parents were born under the British flag. But, although that might happen to me, that is not what I am afraid of. I am afraid of the principle. I am afraid that the Supreme Court will look over my shoulder in fear of menace of a Supreme Court which could write such serpentine reasoning. The court accommodated Roosevelt just as the German courts accommodated Hitler. And this is the "liberal" court that we heard so much about.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

One of the surest signs that inflation is "taking" is when capital takes flight enough to flee from one country to another. Reportedly, large sums of jittery capital have been seeking other havens than the United States in recent weeks and months. Since the Korean outbreak this outflow of money is thought to have increased. Both European and United States capital is seeking safe and productive outlets in Mexico and Canada, according to these reports. Perhaps one of the reasons some money is going across the border into Canada is the hope and expectancy that the Canadian dollar will be revalued to even par with the American dollar before long. As far as one can find in official utterances, this remains largely a "hope" at present. Then, too, there is considerable feeling in some quarters that the present outflow of gold from the United States may mean an eventual boost in the price for gold in this country—that the $35-an-ounce price will be raised. As a matter of fact, all reasoning during an inflation is "speculation." No one ever knows what the future will bring forth as official and statesmen attempt to combat inflation. It requires only a short memory to recall Sir Stafford Cripps' thirteen denials, weren't there, that the pound would be devalued. Yet, it was devalued a whopping 30 per cent. So, one never knows!

In former days, before exchange and gold restrictions were in force, the flight of capital from one country to another was a more or less common occurrence.

The last important emigration of capital occurred in this country just prior to the inauguration of President Roosevelt. At that time, you recall, banks were failing and the financial outlook was indeed bleak. There was a rush to buy gold and lines formed at the Federal Reserve banks where people converted their paper money into gold pieces. (However, later these same folks were ordered to return their gold and take back their paper. When went "off" the gold standard.)

At the same time millions of dollars were being shipped abroad for exchange into other "assets" that felt safe. People here would be safer. The Ruminator well remembers the newspapers of the winter of 1933 giving prominence to the figures of "loss of gold" each week—figures that reflected the "exportation" of capital.

Evidently, therefore, there is real fear among moneyed interest today that the dollar is on the toboggan. The Ruminator has written so many pieces in the last few months on inflation that it comes as no surprise that these fears are becoming magnified.

However, it should be noticed that within the past week the Federal Reserve System has stopped into the situation with a clear warning that it intends to do something about inflation.

Last Friday, the 18th, was announced that the New York Federal Reserve District would raise its discount rate to banks from 1½ to 2 per cent. Now a quarter-per-cent increase may not sound like much, but what is significant is the policy that this change reflects.

Let me quote from the book published by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve titled "The Federal Reserve System: Its Purposes and Functions." In Chapter III, "General Methods of Regulation," is this comment: "The discount rate, therefore, not only represented the cost of accommodation at the Federal Reserve Banks but has reflected Federal Reserve judgment as to whether there was too much, too little, or the right amount of money for doing the country's business. . . . Hence the discount rate in effect at the Federal Reserve Banks, and particularly a change in this rate, has at times been an important indication of Federal Reserve policy (Italics added)."

Notwithstanding the conflict the Federal Reserve authorities and the Treasury Department (the former wishing to control money rates and inflation, yet subject to the Treasury's demands for cheap money)—notwithstanding this conflict we are now told in unmistakable "financial" language that the Reserve Banks are determined to do something about inflation of money and credit. Other moves may shortly be expected. I should guess—such as hiking margins on stock trading and raising the reserve requirements of Member Banks.

Accordingly, we may find—we may hope to find, rather—that anti-inflationary policies will be effective in retarding the flight of capital.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Take-Out Bid May Prevent Disaster

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"Please, tell us what went wrong with us on this hand," asks a Tacoma fan.

"West opened the ten of spades, and East overtook with the jack to return his low trump. South finessed the nine of hearts and West won with the ten. West returned his remaining spade, and East won with the nine. East then returned the jack of hearts. "It didn't really matter what South did on this trick. He was bound to lose three diamonds, three trumps, two spades, and a club. He was down four for a penalty of 3100 points!"

"It seemed to us that South had a fairly good overall. After all, what are you supposed to do with a fairly strong five-card suit in a hand that contains about three honor tricks? If you keep passing such cards the enemy will steal every hand.

"West's double was very close and probably a very fine bid, but this does not settle the problem of what South should have done with his hand. Was it worth a bid or wasn't it?"

"It was worth action, but it was not worth a bid. South should have doubled for a take-out instead of bidding two hearts."

There is no game unless South strikes his partner with a really good hand. If North has a good hand he will hasten to make a strong response to the take-out double.

If North has a moderately strong hand, North and South may be able to out-bid their opponents and play the hand at a reasonable part-score contract. If North has a weak hand, the advantage of the double is that it allows North to bid his best suit immediately. This will probably be the best spot to play the hand.

If South had doubled, North would have bid two clubs. It is perfectly true that two clubs could not be made. North can expect to win four club tricks, one heart and perhaps a spade ruff. At best, he would be down two tricks.

However, there is no double of two clubs East and West would probably wind up playing the hand at four spades or three no-trump making a game. This, however, would be a lot cheaper than giving them 1100 points.

The vital point is that when your hand warrants some defensive action it may be more advisable to make a take-out double than to bid your own best suit. If your own suit is at all doubtful, it is advisable to give partner a chance to name his suit.

First of the Fine Cars in Value

Little Just how much need a really fine car cost?

YOU'LL find the answer written in the delivered price tags of this bold and strapping beauty pictured here.

It's a Buick ROADMASTER—and you have only to put yourself behind the wheel to see that it is truly fine by any yardstick.

But it leaves the factory carrying the lowest price per pound of any car in the fine-car field.

That means that the money that goes into its building goes for things that really count—

For a big, husky Fireball straight-eight engine of 152 hp and all the brilliance of performance the highways can handle—

For room that measures up with the biggest, and for comfort contrived of deep soft seats and abundant space for taking it easy—

For a ride that's literally "out of this world," soft and easy as only all-coil springing can make it, yet firm and steady always, thanks to torque-tube drive—

For handling that is feather-light, for the complete smoothness of Dynaflo Drive as standard equipment, for a whole host of fine-car touches such as rich upholstery materials, flexible-spoke steering wheel, non-glare rear-view mirror, even automatic windshield washers, all included in the price.

Yes, the big question ROADMASTER answers is not how much a really fine car costs, but how little you need to pay to get all that a fine car can give.

Drop in any time on your Buick dealer for a trial ride in a ROADMASTER—and see the surprisingly happy news on its delivered prices.

Your City and Mine!
We'll build it wide and gracious
as love and faith can do.
We'll build it out of honor, as well as steel and tile, Founded on the Rock of Ages and guided with God's smile.
We'll build it out of beauty; we'll build it out of truth;
With the wisdom of the elders and the buoyancy of youth!
We'll build as we were building
for all eternity
That bright and holy city Love promised you and me!
Your city and my city, and God's city too—
What a glorious activity is given us here to do!
To be one of its builders; to join stone unto stone.
To feel its glory, our glory, to know its light our own!

Mrs. Pepper—How well you are looking, Mrs. Smythe.
Mrs. Smythe—Do you really think so?
Mrs. Pepper—Indeed I do. There isn't a woman of my acquaintance as old as you, who looks nearly as young.

their debts before the end of the year so that they would start the new year free of debt. Imagine how much money would go into circulation if that were done here and all outstanding debts paid before the end of the month.

A friend just back from a long auto trip.
Friend—Guess the scenery must have been interesting. You were gone a week longer than you expected, weren't you?
Traveler—That's right. It took that much extra time to get the road maps folded and put back into place.

Precedent, according to a bank report, should not be too slavishly followed, but that would not mean the end of "no" to borrowers without collateral.

Radioactive Pennies To Open Fair Gate

Schenectady, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—Sixty-two radioactive pennies will open the gates at the New York State Fair at Syracuse Saturday.

The General Electric Company announced today that the coppers, representing each of the state's 62 counties, could be hoarded with electrons by the plant's 100,000,000-volt betatrons. Then they will be placed in a lead-lined container and flown to Syracuse.

At the fairgrounds, the pennies will be transferred to a lead cellophane of a specially designed Geiger counter, which measures radioactivity. As the clicks of the exploding atoms in the device reach a certain intensity, they will operate a relay switch. The switch, in turn, will start another mechanism to open the gates.

The chairman of each county's board of supervisors has been asked by fair officials to forward

929 Casualties

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Defense Department released a list of 929 casualties of the Korean fighting—the longest of the war—for today's newspapers. A spokesman said the list represented a "backlog" because casualties are not publicly announced until next of kin have been notified. The department has not recently issued any casualty totals, saying that military security is involved.

Storm Threatens

New Orleans, Aug. 28 (AP)—Two tropical storms—one a full-blown hurricane and the other likely to become so—caused anxiety along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts today. At the moment, however, no coast is in danger. The Gulf storm—hangover from a 120-mile-an-hour hurricane—gathered new power as it edged deeper into the Gulf of Mexico after brushing Havana, Cuba.

A penny to air headquarters at Syracuse for the demonstration. The fair ends Sept. 9.

Hospital Ship After Crash

Waves break over a huge Red Cross marking final resting place of hospital ship Benevolence, lying on its side on bottom of ocean near the Golden Gate in San Francisco. ## As Pegler Sees It should be excluded from that area. . . . no question was raised as to petitioner's loyalty to the United States. . . . all legal restrictions which curtail the civil rights of a single racial group are immediately suspect. This is not to say that all such restrictions are unconstitutional. Pressing public necessity may sometimes justify such restrictions; racial antagonism never can.

Nevertheless, General DeWitt, commenting on his order, had said, "A Jap's a Jap," meaning that for practical, immediate purposes, Japs were dangerous because they were Japs regardless of the admitted loyalty of the petitioner before the court and of thousands like him.

Resuming our excerpts from the majority opinion, which is still the law "Whoever shall enter, remain in, leave or commit any act in any military area or zone prescribed by the President . . . or by any military authority designated by the secretary of war . . . contrary to the order of the secretary of war or any such military commander, shall be liable to a fine of not to exceed $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year for each offense."

So the persons meant are damned if they "remain in" their home area and equally damned if they "leave," and any "act," even breathing, is a crime, and the Supreme Court upheld all this.

Without rejecting "guilt by association," one may still reject the finding that the loyal, innocent Japs suffered no wrong merely because they looked like "approximately 5,000" others who refused to swear unqualified allegiance, and that their injury was only an unavoidable hardship of war. Communists and fellow-travelers deliberately invite suspicion by flocking together for the hostile purpose of giving aid and comfort to the enemy in the present war.

They give circumstantial evidence. The loyal Japs were not even accused of association with the disloyal. They were found guilty of looking like disloyal persons. In more honest words, they looked like Japs. That was the only reason why they were locked up and the Supreme Court lied when it wrote the contrary. So the law now stands on our oaks that persons of general similarity of features or complexion or who came from lands now or formerly occupied by Soviet Russia or whose parents did may be locked up.

Justice Jackson, dissenting, correctly said: "A citizen's presence in the locality was made a crime only if his parents were of Japanese birth . . . his crime would result not from anything he did, said or thought, but only in that he was born of different racial stock."

Plenty of Turkey

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—There should be plenty of turkey for holiday tables in New York state this year. The State Agriculture Department reported yesterday that 890,000 turkeys had been raised in the state this year. This is a 10-per-cent increase from the 809,000 produced in 1949, and almost double the 10-year (1937-46) average of 490,000.

New 'Glass Light'

Pasadena, Calif., Aug. 28 (AP)—A new electric light process wherein glass itself can be illuminated was disclosed here to the Illuminating Engineers Society. Dr. Erwin F. Lowry, chief engineer of the Sylvania Electrical Products Co., New York, said yesterday the process utilizes a specially-treated glass developed by the Corning Glass Co. and Sylvania.

Rubber Men Confident

Akron, O., Aug. 28 (AP)—Motorists still will be able to buy the tires and tubes they need in spite of a new government curtailment on rubber production. This was agreed on today by various spokesmen for the rubber industry after they examined the government order. They said, too, that there will be plenty of rubber for other civilian goods.

Giuseppe DeLuca Dies; Was Noted Baritone

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—Giuseppe DeLuca, one of the last great singers surviving from opera's famed "golden age," died Saturday at the age of 73.

A baritone, he was considered the world's greatest contemporary master of "bel canto," the almost vanished art of effortless style in singing.

DeLuca was born in Rome and was a schoolmate of Pope Pius XII. He was trained in singing at the Vatican and made his opera debut in 1897.

From that date on, he sang nearly 100 roles in some 5,000 performances in most of the world's great opera houses.

The Good Old Mary-Nan

By FRANK TRIPP

A perfect host once told me that he sleeps occasionally in his guest room, to test its comfort. I went home and tried it. For all I could see, our star boarders were faring as well as the family.

I so reported to Fanny, which touched her off on the topic of beds. It was coming Summer and I was drawing sketches from which to rebuild the Mary-Nan II for something like the fifth time. Already there was little left of the original Matthews except the hull. Fanny spoke up:

"While you're in the guest-codding mood you might sleep a night on each bench you put in that once dandy boat which you've ruined."

"They're not park benches," I resented. "They are perfectly good beds with inner spring mattresses—all but two."

"I don't like any of 'em," she came back, then raged me by tearing out both sleeping cabins "because they were in the way of your trick beds and amateur improvement."

"That made me sore; calling me an amateur, when I've spent 20 years taking a cruiser apart and putting it together again—somehow I reckon nobody has had more experience, and told her that as a result of my ingenuity there isn't another boat in the world like the Mary-Nan."

"Thank God for that," said Fanny.

JUST THE SAME the good old Mary-Nan, who could vote this year if she was human—and she is to me—just the same she's a great boat. Though I guess she is pretty much a man's boat, the way I've altered her.

All I've done is tear out her cabins and build two raised decks, so you can have two card games going, and a galley big enough for two guys to mix drinks at the same time. Provided the guests have been reasonably thoughtful.

To accomplish this and still retain sleeping quarters for six people and the skipper (that's me) in an elliptical space 38 by 11 feet, required some sanding can engineering, since she still had to have a power plant—or a tow boat.

THE ONLY DRAWBACK about this remodeling business is that the boat gets 20 hours of dissection for every hour of sailing. Year after year I say, "Now she's done; next year we'll just sail her."

Then, through Winter days of longing for Spring and the Mary-Nan, I cook up more improvements for her, anyway I call them improvements. Again approaches the time to haul her out and the improvements aren't finished yet.

So the Mary-Nan, though never quite finished, has sailed proudly and reliably for 21 years, with happy folks aboard. I fear that the day she's finished will be when I'm fished too.

Stellar Cast Visits Woodstock Playhouse Fro Pre-Broadway Showing of New Comedy

Rosemary Casey, who made her Broadway debut as a play-wright last winter with "The Velvet Glove," is the author of the new comedy in which Leo G. Carroll will appear tomorrow evening at the Woodstock Playhouse. The play will run through Sunday, Sept. 3 with matinees on Thursday and Saturday. Produced by John Golden and Mr. Carroll, it is titled "Once an Actor."

Leo G. Carroll, star of stage and screen was the droll "Inspector Rough" in the original Broadway production of "Angel Street," and played the role in "The Late George Apley." His appearances in motion pictures include a long line of brilliant performances, the most recent being, "The Father of the Bride."

"Once an Actor" is headed for Broadway in the fall under the sponsorship of John Golden and Mr. Carroll. It is a charming comedy which deals with a successful playwright who was once an actor, but who has allowed himself to settle into a rather dull routine. As a result of his dullness, his wife begins an affair with another actor, formerly a matinee idol, but now on the decline. Around this triangle situation Miss Casey has woven a witty commentary on the lives of her characters.

A distinguished cast of Broadway players will support Mr. Carroll. They include Joan Wetmore, John Newland, Ethel Owen, Elizabeth Eustis and Audrey Ridgwell. Miss Wetmore appeared on Broadway in "Kind Lady," "Two On an Island," "The Ziegfeld Follies" and "Send an Ark." Mr. Newland has been identified with television since its beginning, one of the best known roles being that of "Danny Frank" in "One Man's Family," while his stage appearances include "Mr. and Mrs. North," "The Ziegfeld Follies" and "Send an Ark."

Ethel Owen, one of the best known players in radio, has been seen on Broadway in "Three's a Family," "Laughing Room Only" and the revival of "Showboat." Miss Eustis played 629 performances on Broadway as Nanette in "Angel Street." She also in "The Two Mrs. Carralls" and "Ladies in Retirement." Audrey Ridgwell has been on the stage since a child when she appeared with Maude Adams in "Peter Pan." Recent appearances have been with Helen Hayes in "Harriet," "Whiteoaks" with Ethel Barrymore and "Claudia" with Dorothy McCall.

Evening performances for "Once an Actor" will begin at 8:45 with matinees on Thursday and Saturday at 2:45. Reservations may be made by calling Woodstock 2015.

Co-Workers Honor Doris Palmater at Dinner and Shower

A dinner and shower in honor of Doris Palmater, bride-to-be, was held Thursday evening at the Embassy by her co-workers in the New York Telephone Company.

Miss Palmater, a special clerk in the construction department, is to be married Sunday to Alton Cole.

The bride was a pale yellow gown to match that of the maid of honor, and a matching stole. She carried yellow gladioli and her head dress was of yellow daisies.

Barbara Ann Will, niece of the groom, was flower girl, wearing blue dotted Swiss styled with a gathered skirt and black velvet bows. She carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and wore a head-piece of the same flower.

Best man was Warren Dunham of Port Ewen, brother of the groom, and ushers were Hubert Brink of Lake Katrine, James Overbaugh, Jr., of Lake Katrine, brother of the bride, and Walter Burger of Foxhall avenue, brother-in-law of the groom.

After a reception and buffet supper on the lawn of the bride's parents' home, the couple left for a wedding trip through Virginia with stops planned at Virginia Beach, Washington, D. C., and Atlantic City, N. J. For traveling the bride wore a watermelon red suit with white accents and a corsage of white gladioli.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and the State University of Plattsburg. She will teach high school in Liberty this fall. During the summer, she has worked in the business office of the Adirondack Trailways Company.

The groom was graduated from Kingston High School and is now a junior at Ithaca, majoring in physical education. He spent two years in the Marine Corps as a corporal.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, ankle length, with long sleeves, illusion neckline and a lace bertha trimmed with sequins. Her short veil of illusion net was caught to a helmet-shaped cap of matching lace, and she carried a prayer book with a white orchid, stephanotis and streamers.

Mrs. Cy S. Steckler of Bronxville was the matron of honor, wearing an ankle-length gown of baby blue lace with a sweetheart bodice and carrying an old-fashioned nosegay.

James E. Gale of Bridgeport was best man, and the ushers, all nephews of the groom, were Fred Fine and Arthur Fine, of New York, and Kalman Dworken, Donald Dworken and Harvey Dworken, all of Bridgeport.

A reception and dinner dance for 175 guests were held at the hotel, and it was announced that the couple would fly to Bermuda for their wedding trip, and would stay at Castle Harbor Hotel. For traveling, the bride chose a golden-beige wool shantung suit with black accessories.

The bride received her A. B. degree from Cornell University and her master of arts degree from Columbia. She was a member of Sigma Delta Tau sorority, and was on the faculty of the department of physics and chemistry of Hunter College High School in New York City.

The groom attended the University of Virginia and took his law degree from Boston University School of Law. He is now a practicing attorney in Bridgeport, where the couple will live, at 1800 Park avenue. The groom served with the Air Force Signal Corps.

In a double ring ceremony at Holy Cross Church, Miss Wanda L. Overbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Overbaugh of Lake Katrine, became the bride yesterday of Neil V. Dunham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dunham, 77 Auburn street.

At 93 She Wins Six Prizes for Handicraft

She couldn't see the reason for all the fuss about her winning six prizes at the recent Ulster County Fair and Farmers' Field Day. But friends of Mrs. Teresa DeCrescenzo, 93, of Stone Ridge, consider remarkable her first place work on a fine square mesh. She learned the art at the age of 72 and has been doing it for 21 years. ## Creative Work Is Conducive to Long Life She Advises

When a person learns a new handicraft at the age of 72, that is news of minor importance. When the same person continues to work at this handicraft for 21 more years, that is news of considerable importance.

And when, at the age of 93, the person exhibits her work at the county fair for the first time in her life and wins six prizes, that most assuredly rates a newspaper account.

That is the amazing story of Mrs. Teresa DeCrescenzo of Stone Ridge. Yet, the modest woman was quite surprised when a newspaper reporter and photographer called on her last week. She didn't see any reason for "all the fuss."

Mrs. DeCrescenzo's specialty is fine—fine work on a fine square mesh. She learned this art at the age of 72 and she still works at it for hours at a time.

Her eyes are unusually sharp and strong. She wears glasses only while working, and it is very close work involving the counting of many fine threads.

She also does Italian cut work and has covered in needlepoint patterns several chairs in the spacious Stone Ridge farmhouse in which she lives with her nephew, Harry C. Scarpato, and niece, Emma and Clelia Scarpato.

Entering her handicraft in the Ulster County Fair and Farmers' Field Day this year for the first time, Mrs. DeCrescenzo came away with one blue (excellent) ribbon, three red (good) ribbons, and two yellow (creditable) ribbons.

Although she speaks no English, she told The Freeman, as interpreted by her niece, "The secret of a fruitful and happy old age is to do creative work." Mrs. DeCrescenzo was born in Loreto, Italy, and came to this country at the age of 57.

Coal Power Ships Fading

London (AP)—The sweating coal heaver with the blacksmith muscles who used to be a fixture in front of the boiler of almost every steamship in the world is, on the way to join the dodo as an extinct creature. Coal itself is being supplanted by oil. Almost all ships being built now will "burn oil," and of all the ships in the world only about one in four still uses coal. Before World War II about 60 per cent of the world's shipping was powered with coal. The world steamer tonnage was a little less than 52,000,000 tons.

Tarzan Likes Real Africa

Nairobi, Kenya Colony (AP)—Lex Barker, the latest in the line of film Tarzans founded by Elmo Lincoln, finds the great forests of the foothills of snow-capped Mount Kenya a much more romantic place to work than the American settings previously used by the jungle man. "I have never enjoyed anything more than these contacts with the real thing," Barker said. Picture making here has its drawbacks, however. One day an elephant charged the camp, dislocating the shooting schedule. It did no serious damage, however.

LENGTH A MATTER OF PERSONAL CHOICE

Though coats may go to any length for fall, here are three lengths most suited. The three-quarter coat (left) is in rustic copper trimmed with four hand-polished brass buttons. Side fullness and deep armholes make the short coat (center) in cabin brown chin-chilla an ideal suit companion. The full-length coat in alpine gold (right) has rounded dolman sleeves and mushroom collar.

New York (NEA)—The length of a coat is a matter of personal choice this autumn. But the straighter three-quarter length, the short coat in the pyramid silhouette, and the full-length coat with easy lines all are important. The reason that the three-quarter coat has importance this season is that it looks straight and narrow. The fullness of other years is gone. The back may be very simply straight or it may conceivably have a low half-belt. Either way, the look is new.

One such well-tailored coat in rustic copper bolivia cloth borrows highlights from the gleam of four big hand-polished brass buttons. A small shawl collar and four widely-spaced pocket flaps provide added interest.

A short coat in pyramid silhouette is given side fullness and deep armholes with the thought that, thus designed, it can go neatly over a suit. Tailored in cabin brown chin-chilla, it's meant to provide contrast to the sleek lines of a narrow skirt.

The woman who will buy just one new coat this fall might do well to think about the full-length coat with soft, flowing lines. One coat, in alpine gold bolivia cloth, has rounded dolman sleeves which make it easily wearable over suits and jackets. A button-up mushroom collar provides a flattering frame for a pretty face. This is the coat which, more than any other, will "go everywhere."

The officers reported that the car of Olive McGraham, 21 Janet street, headed south on Wurts street, tried to stop back of the car of Salvatore Gussano, of Long Island City, which had stopped for a traffic light and struck it in the rear. The latter car was shoved into the auto of Rocky Carmino, 39 Gill street. The McGraham car was damaged in front "due to brake failure," the report said.

The officers were called to the scene to investigate the report of Mrs. James W. Honowitz, 840 Park avenue, New York, who said her sedan struck a car parked at the curb on Wurts street. The driver of the other car, she said, refused to exchange addresses and left the scene before the officers arrived.

Ethiopia Takes Refugees

Addis Ababa (AP)—New homes and a new life in Ethiopia await 171 displaced persons, including wives and children, in International Refugee Organization camps in the American, British and French zones of Germany. Displaced persons willing to accept resettlement in Ethiopia were offered three-year contracts for permanent settlement. Agricultural workers were offered land and government subsidies for setting themselves up in farming. Professional and skilled workers were offered salaries ranging downward from $275 monthly. Of those chosen, 37 are agricultural workers. The rest represent various professions and skills, from doctors, engineers and architects to mechanics, pumbers and bricklayers.

buys Bomb With Home

San Bernardino, Calif. (AP)—E. S. Winter got more than he bargained for when he bought his new home. He decided to clean out a closet. Reaching up to remove some junk from a shelf, his hand brushed a cold, hard, unfamiliar object. It was a live bomb. Police officers, to whom Winter took the bomb, said it was the type used by the Air Force for bomb practice. It was about 16 inches long and weighed 13 pounds.

FIRST BIRTHDAY PARTY

A mother writes: "I'd like to have a birthday party for my little girl who will be a year old. My husband laughs at the idea for such young children. Is it out of place to begin on the first birthday? Should the invitations be sent to the children or to their mothers?"

No birthday party is more popular than the first birthday of the first child! The invitations are sent to the children with a message written across the bottom such as: "Mommy is invited, too." Gifts on Wedding Anniversaries

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are invited to a silver wedding anniversary, several weeks from now. As we're going away in the meantime, I tried finding out from the hostess-to-be—who is a very new friend—whether she expected a lot of silver. Her answer was "Oh I hope not! We don't need any!" This leads me to think that silver would not be as acceptable as something else. I don't know how many guests are invited but the invitation was especially engraved. If not silver what shall I take to her before we leave or send on the day of the party?

Answer: Actually there is no obligation to send a present of any sort if you would like to send something you could order a bouquet of white flowers tied with a silver ribbon to be delivered on the day of the anniversary.

Name for Legally Separated

Dear Mrs. Post: As a Catholic I'm not divorced but have obtained a legal separation from my husband. I am, therefore, still Mrs. Daniel C. Doaks. But please tell me what I should call myself socially in this case. If I continue as before I suggest there is a Mr. Doaks in the house and yet if I call myself Mrs. Maidenname Doaks it would give the impression that I was divorced and free.

Answer: You alone will have to decide upon which impression you prefer to give.

Wedding Punch

Dear Mrs. Post: Does it matter what kind of punch is served at a wedding reception? Is there one kind more suitable—or traditional—than others?

Answer: Champagne—if possible.

Are you planning to write your wedding invitations by hand?

Joe Kwasney and Sally Russell Winners in Freeman's Hole-in-One

Here they are, ladies and gentlemen, the King and Queen of the 1950 Freeman hole-in-one tournament:

1. The King is Joe Kwasney, straight-hitting Wiltwyck Golf Club member who wears his hair not unlike a collegiate oarsman—distance, 2 feet 9 inches.

2. The Queen—youthful Sally Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Russell of Saugerties, and one of Twaalfskill's starlets—distance, 10 feet 10 inches.

There they are, after 200 persons took four shots on the specially constructed 135-yard hole in the day-long competition Sunday at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

While Miss Russell had better than three feet margin over the second place female entrant, Edna Britt, Kwasney nosed out veteran Ernie LeFevre by only four inches in the male competition.

Two Great Shots

(Kwasney, however, fired two shots inside the five-foot "birdie" circle, his second being 3 feet 5 inches, but under the rules of the tournament, only his best effort counted.)

Jim Dwyer, the 1949 champion who preceded Kwasney and LeFevre to the tee, created quite a stir when he dropped his second shot 3 feet 9 inches from the pin.

For a while it appeared that Dwyer's shot would stand up but then along came Kwasney and LeFevre.

The prize winners:

Men's Division

1. Joe Kwasney, Wiltwyck, 2 feet 9 inches, trophy.

2. Ernie LeFevre, Wiltwyck, 3 feet 1 inch.

3. Jim Dwyer, Twaalfskill, 3 feet 9 inches.

4. George Hughes, 6 feet.

5. Mike Marchuk, unattached, 6 feet 2 inches.

Women's Division

1. Sally Russell, Twaalfskill, 10 feet 10 inches, trophy.

2. Edna Britt, Wiltwyck, 14 feet 3 inches.

3. Mrs. Gert Davenport, Wiltwyck, 14 feet 5 inches.

4. Betty Flint, Twaalfskill, 15 feet 4 inches.

Hughes Six Feet

Hughes fired a shot six feet from the cup to pace the early morning entries before Dwyer came on. Betty Flint's drive of 15 feet 4 inches led the early women entries.

Bob Daley and Art Hutton, of Wiltwyck, were just off the prize list with shots of 5 feet 6 inches. Herm Rousa fired four good shots, the best being 7 feet 1 inch from the cup.

Some of the best shots not in the prize list:

Clayton Smith, 10 feet; Charlie Vogel, 8 feet 6 inches; John Van Gonsic, 8 feet; Ernie Schirmer, 8 feet 11 inches; Philip Buchanan, 10 feet; Carroll Schipp, 8 feet 8 inches; Ken Davenport, 8 feet 7 inches.

Also, Alvie Boice, 10 feet; Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, 8 feet;

Joe Scott, 7 feet 7 inches; Lew Boice, 9 feet 6 inches; Don Oulton, 7 feet 10 inches; Henry Jacobs, 7 feet 9 inches; Ben Cohen, 3 feet 2 inches; Brian Smith, 8 feet 7 inches; Frank Stone, 10 feet; Wilson Ingalls, 9 feet.

Mrs. Ivan Whitmore was in the prize list with a shot of 18 feet 8 inches until Mrs. Gert Davenport came along with her good effort on the last squad.

Bill Van Aken Edges Davenport, 1-Up, in 36 Holes for Wiltwyck Crown

Bogie-5 on 36th Decides Tense Titular Finals

Second Crown for The Winner

Bill Van Aken won his second Wiltwyck Golf Club championship Sunday in a thrilling 36-hole final against Maurice Davenport.

The title was decided on the 36th hole when both players went over par figures.

(Van Aken qualified for the 1950 city finals on Labor Day against the winner of the George Hughes-Alvin Boice final at Twaalfskill.)

While the Van Aken-Davenport match was not an exhibition of mechanically perfect golf, it was without a doubt, the most thrilling final in the history of the club.

Van Aken, once three-up in the first nine holes, had to drop a 30-foot birdie-3 on the difficult 34th hole (No. 7) to go one-up after Davenport had won the 33rd with a par-5.

All Even at 36

Davenport fired an iron just above the stick on the 35th hole, while Van Aken pulled his shot to the left and below the trap. Davenport played cautiously and was down in three. Van Aken got a break on his pitch which was just an inch short of clearing the edge of the trap. He was short in three to square the match.

Then came the horrendous 36th hole.

Van Aken unloaded perhaps the longest drive in the match, a screaming shot that sailed 290 yards down the middle. Davenport's tee shot was smothered and faded off to the right in the narrow fairway between the rough below No. 3 and the hill below the ladies tee on No. 8.

Davenport's second wood shot had too much right hand and the ball landed near the new putting green in front of the clubhouse. Van Aken's second shot was too strong across the green and about 25 yards to the right.

The Big Six

The big break of the match came on Davenport's second shot. He was about 50 yards from the green with the trap squarely in front of him. After a long consultation with his caddy and the ball landed near the new putting green in front of the clubhouse. Van Aken's second shot was too strong across the green and about 25 yards to the right.

Davenport's fourth shot was strong beyond 20 feet beyond the cup. Van Aken was 2-up but Davenport, pitching magnificently rallied to square the match on the "dog-leg" 33rd. His tee shot on the uphill 34th was weak, while Van Aken got good position below the green. Davenport almost made a spectacular recovery but his approach was strong and he rolled 30 feet beyond the cup. Van Aken, 30 feet away on his pitch shot, knocked it down for the birdie-3.

Shurter Sweeps Rhinebeck Races

Larry Shurter, the West Shokan stock car ace, crashed the jackpot with gusto in Saturday night's Rhinebeck Speedway stock car races, sweeping three races, including the 25-lap feature.

Although a leading favorite for years in both midget and stock cars, this was the first top money win for Larry so far in 1950.

Shurter made a strong finish to overcome Bill Darragh in the 25-lap main event. He had a clear-cut margin in the preliminary trials.

New York Cubans Edge Two Stars In Ninth Inning Thriller, 7-5

Ten of Twelve Runs Scored in Last Stanza

The City League All Stars, spotting the New York Cubans a 7-1 ninth inning lead, came within an eyelash of registering their second major upset Saturday at municipal stadium.

The Cubans won 7 to 5, choking off a bottom of the ninth last ditch rally by the Stars at four runs.

While a disappointing attendance looked on, in view of the fact that a new car was being given away, the clubs battled eight innings at a 1-1 tie.

The Cubans chased Jack Watzka with a six-run rally in the top of the ninth but the All Stars rallied to counter four times in their half.

(The automobile was awarded Allen Van Wagenen, 10-year-old Woodstock youth).

Watzka Excels

Watzka staged a tremendous pitching duel with Roosevelt Clark, a reformed outfielder, for eight innings. The big right hander had a live fast ball and good control and scattered eight hits effectively.

Came the ninth and the avalanche. Watzka disposed of the first batter on a grounder to Johnny Schatzel. Caballero, a rugged hitter, tripped to left center. Manager Joe Hoffman elected to walk Amoroso and then pulled his infield in halfway. Yvanes slashed a hot grounder through the right side. In quick succession followed a walk, Loudon's single and Fernandez's line drive homer over Charlie Neff's head in right field.

Fisher relieved Watzka but a couple of hits and an error accounted for the Cubans' seventh marker.

All Stars Rally

The All Stars didn't fold. They came right back and almost jarred Clark's teeth out. Dick Dulin battered for George Glaser and drew a walk. Schatzel popped to first but Bud Scheffel lined an outside pitch to the left field corner for a triple and a 7-2 count.

After Scheffel scored on a wild pitch, Malnes popped to the pitcher. The second pinch swinger, Bob Gheat, also drew a walk and two scorching hits followed. Joe Shattan doubled and Mike Rienzo tripled to deep left center. The crowd was roaring for an upset at this stage but Fernandez collapsed. Bill Glaser's grounder and tossed him out to end the game. Shattan and Rienzo each had two hits for the All Stars.

Police vs. Cordts At the Stadium

The baseball classic between the Kingston Police nine and Cordts Hose is scheduled Tuesday night at municipal stadium at 8 o'clock. The annual all-star junior baseball classic between the K.A.A. Juniors and Brooklyn-Against-The-World is scheduled Thursday, Aug. 31, at 8 p. m.

Major League Roundup

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Credit Boston's bounce-back in to flag contention to the recovery of a long lost "secret weapon"—coming from behind.

Overcoming enemy leads—something that was a lost art to the Red Sox earlier this year—plus a two week stay at Fenway Park have combined to rekindle the pennant spark in the hearts of loyal Boston rooters.

Currently the hottest club in baseball, the Red Sox have been catching up with the league leaders at a furious pace. Twelve victories in the last 13 games have helped Boston cut a once seemingly insurmountable eight-game deficit in half.

The Red Sox picked up a half-game on the league leaders yesterday when they overcame a 7-0 Cleveland lead to defeat the Indians, 11-9, while the Philadelphia Athletics were holding the Tigers even in two games. The A's won the opener, 4-3, and Detroit won the second 8-1.

The Sox' triumph helped the New York Yankees gain undisputed possession of second place.

The defending champions eked out a 2-1 victory in 10 innings over the Chicago White Sox to cut Detroit's first place margin to one game. Cleveland trails by two, hit pitching of Howie Fox, won the second game, 3-1.

Boston's third place Braves swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 7-3 and 4-1.

Tommy Henrich hit a pinch single with one out and the bases loaded in the 10th inning to win for the Yankees. Allie Reynolds yielded two hits for the victors to register his 12th victory. Bob Cain was the loser.

Sam Chapman's 22nd home run with a mate aboard in the eighth inning spoiled young Ray Herbert's major league debut as the A's came from behind to defeat the Tigers in the first game. Art Houtteman matched his 17th triumph in the second.

Washington and St. Louis split a doubleheader. After Joe Haynes had pitched the Nats to an 8-0 first game win in the opener, The Browns won the second game, 11-10.

Philadelphia's Phillies increased their National League lead to five games over Brooklyn, defeating the Chicago Cubs, 6-1, while the St. Louis Cardinals were battering the Dodgers, 13-3.

The Cubs battled the Phils to an 11-inning 4-4 tie in the second game of their doubleheader that was halted by darkness. The two teams were to play two games to day.

New York's Giants and Cincinnati's Reds divided two games. The Giants won the opener, 11-6, and Don Mueller cracked out five hits. The Reds, behind the four-hit pitching of Howie Fox, won the second game, 3-1.

Boston's third place Braves swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 7-3 and 4-1.

Deserted for Gold

John Sutter, on whose California land gold was discovered, died a poor man because his employees deserted his ranch to seek gold for themselves, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Yankees' Permitted Only Two Hits as the Yankees nipped the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, in 19 innings.

The rise in the average wage rate of the British worker since 1938 is about 72 per cent, exclusive of overtime.

Score 6 and 5 Wins Over Remmert and John Van Gonsic

Both Flash Great Form in Tripping Veterans

The golfing gods served youth on a golden platter in the semi-final round of the Twaalfskill Golf Club championship, when defending champion, Alvin Boice, and George Hughes scored decisive 6 and 5 victories over two veteran standbys, John Van Gonsic and Ed Remmert, in week-end matches.

The two sharpshooting young men will meet in a 36-hole playoff for the crown held by Boice on Saturday, September 2. The first half of the match is scheduled at 9 a. m. and the second half at 2 p. m.

(The winner of the Boice-Hughes match will qualify for the city finals against Bill Van Aken, newly-crowned Wiltwyck Ringling, on Labor Day in a 36-hole test. The morning round is scheduled at 9 a. m. and the second half at 2 p. m.)

Hughes Has Struck

Hughes posted a 37 to lead Van Gonsic 3-up at the end of nine holes, dropping only the seventh with a par-5 to Van Gonsic's birdie. Both bogied the ninth with 5s. Van Gonsic finishing with a 41.

Hughes then turned on a sensational streak of golf, posting birdies on three of the first four holes to close out the match with an eagle-2 on the 13th hole. He drove the green and then dropped a 15-foot putt for the eagle. His card for the last four holes read: 3-2-4-2. Van Gonsic, meanwhile, was going along at even 4s.

Boice led Remmert 4-up at the end of the first nine. He posted seven pars, bled the No. 7 with a four and double-bogied the long No. 5 with a 7. Remmert, who carded an outlying 40, failed to win a hole until the 11th when he birdied the short No. 2. He was down in regulation figures on the 13th green but Boice's birdie-3 wound up the competition.

Pickpocket Suspect Is Caught in I.R.T. Tunnel

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—A transit patrolman captured an alleged pickpocket this morning after a daring chase in the Lexington avenue-I.R.T. subway tunnel between the 51st and 59th street stations during which both men dodged speeding trains.

Patrolman Henry Donovan said he saw the man lift the wallet of Edward Carroll, 40, of 2803 Davidson avenue, the Bronx, while the latter dozed at 3 a. m. (E.D.T.) on a bench in the 51st street station. Donovan called for the suspect, James Rala, 50, homeless, to halt but the man leaped to the tracks, police said, and ran north toward the 59th street station.

Donovan took Rala to the East 51st street police station. Police searched the suspect and said they found $30 hidden in one sock and $20 in another.
According to police, Rala admitted the theft and said he removed his shoes after eluding the patrolman in the tunnel and hid Carroll's money in his socks. He was booked on a charge of grand larceny.

Floods Follow 'Quake'

New Delhi, India, Aug. 28 (AP)—The face of northeast India still was changing today in the wake of the devastating earthquake 13 days ago, termed by scientists the world's fifth most severe recorded shock. Spreading flood waters pushed farther over tea gardens in Assam province, where the quake hit hardest. The death toll was in the neighborhood of 5,000. Minor shocks continued in the province. Millions prayed in the streets and fields. An estimated 5,000,000 persons were reported homeless. Property damage was placed at $20,000,000.

Gossip Columns Steer Police to Big Raid

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—Police who acted on recent gossip column tips staged a mid-Manhattan gambling raid early yesterday morning and claimed they broke up two $5,000 bridge games.

They arrested 12 men, who were later booked on gaming charges. Two plain-clothes patrolmen said they loitered outside an old brownstone apartment house at 625 Madison avenue and slipped inside when two men walked out. They repeated their maneuver at a second-floor apartment, and said they found themselves in a room rigged for card and dice playing—with seats for about 60 persons.

Only 12 were on hand at the time however, with only the two card games in progress.
The police said the place had been mentioned in several recent gossip columns, but did not reveal their exact source of information.

Transit Deficit

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—The city-owned transit system had an operating deficit of $1,206,043 in the fiscal year ended June 30. There was an operating profit of $12,353,085 in the 1949-50 fiscal year, the first year of the ten-cent subway fare and seven-cent surface line fare. The sharp drop, reported yesterday by the Board of Transportation, was caused mainly by two factors. 1. Passenger traffic on the subways, the chief source of revenue, declined 83,625,788 rides, almost five per cent. Passenger revenues on all lines—subways, elevated, buses and trolleys—were $8,332,704 less than in 1948-49. 2. Operating expenses were $6,866,691 higher.

'Quiet' Dynamite

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 28 (AP)—Three men escaped with minor injuries last night as a big trailer-truck loaded with dynamite collided with another truck and then caught fire. All three leaped clear of the wreckage seconds before the gasoline tank of the larger truck—carrying 600 cases of dynamite—exploded. None of the dynamite—being taken from the Hercules Powder Co. plant at Dover, N. J., to Clarksburg—exploded.

Dr. James in Defense

Dr. George James, first Ulster county commissioner of health who resigned that position on July 15, 1949, to enter the State Health Department, has been assigned along with four other officials of the department to medical planning posts in the state's defense preparations for an atomic bomb attack. Dr. James was named head of the department's emergency field medical service section by Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner.

Professions Still Popular

Pargue (AP)—Though miners and factory workers enjoy a relatively high social and economic status in Czechoslovakia, young people are still eager to enter the professions. The Prague newspaper "Lidova Demokracie" has reported that so many tried to enroll for medicine and pharmacy in the fall semester that the universities cannot take all of them. On the other hand, it said, classes in mining, iron engineering and electrotechnical studies still are not full.
